

Who to send me

You don’t have to explain what I do. Listen for one of these lines, then text me.

1 Contractors and trades roofing, remodel, electrical, HVAC	LISTEN FOR “I’ll write the bid up tonight.” “I’ll get you the bid this weekend.” “I’m on a roof, I’ll call you back.” Say: Suk builds bid bots for the trades. Your bids, your numbers, by dinner.
2 Making an AI decision being pitched, about to sign, or already paying	LISTEN FOR “Three AI companies pitched me this month.” “We’re about to sign up for an AI tool.” “We pay for AI and I can’t tell if it’s working.” Say: Before you sign anything, talk to Suk. He saved one agency about $8,000 on an AI service they were already shopping for.
3 Paying for AI, barely using it solo owners, practices, small teams	LISTEN FOR “I know I should be using AI.” “I tried it and what I got back was useless.” “I don’t have time to figure this out.” Say: Suk trains owners on AI one skill at a time. You use it that day.

WHAT CLIENTS SAY

“This was a very easy process. I’m impressed with your professionalism and I’m excited to use [it].” Chris Wolf, Wolf & Wolf, on his bid bot	“It probably cuts my average proposal time in half.” Nate, electrician. After one training, he built the proposal for a $120,000 contract he won.	“[I]t probably would have taken me 13 to 15 months. And I did it in two.” David Vudragovich, group health agent, on learning AI in my weekly sessions
